ENGINE COMPANY

SUCCESSORS TO PRODUCERS SUPPLY CO. FRANKLIN, PENNA.

33c FOR 10,000 BALES

We will pay thirty-three cents (33c) per pound for ten thoussand (10,000) bales of 1919 season's run cotton, basis middling, for delivery f. o. b. any compress or railroad platform, on or before November 15, 1919.

Contracts received for the first ten thousand bales will be confirmed, and all received after we have bought this amount will be refused immediately.

Although we make this offer for prompt acceptance, we wish to say that the statistical outlook is distinctly bearish. Even if present indications of crop damage should be more than real ized, we still have more cotton than the world can use. In view of the fact that after impoverished Europe has arranged for money and credit to trade with us, her first needs will be for food and reconstruction of demolished cities, railroads and manufacturing plants, and until money is provided for these other things, and at present at almost ruinous exchange rates, their old clothes will be made to go as far as possible.

Cotton may be forced to a higher level yet through speculation; but with a carryover of over 5,000,000 bales, an American consumption of around 6,000,000 the coming season, and the new crop almost here of around 11,000,000, which will leave a considerable carryover on August 1, 1920, we think the present level discounts fully all present bullish features, and that the trend from now on will be against higher prices.

Account our hedge facilities as broker members of the American Cotton & Grain Exchange, we will accept contracts on sale of spot cotton without marginal requirements, on parties financially responsible on contract.
